Encouragement

Don't spend major time with minor people. If there are people in your life that continually disappoint you, break promises, stomp on your dreams, are too judgmental, have different values or don't have your back during difficult times....that is not a friend or Brother Knight!

Membership

I don't have time to go to meetings; why should I help with Council projects?

Many of you that use this excuse may have forgotten the oath that you took when first joining the Knights of Columbus. I suggest that you recruit a friend or church member to join the Knights. When you have done this accompany that person to his First Degree. Listen to the oath that he will take and remember as a Knight the oath that you took.

"FAITH WITHOUT WORKS IS DEAD." If you have allowed yourself to become a TV Junkie, stop now, and give a few of those hours to your Council!

Summer’s Over

September reminds me of school. Throughout our lives we have been lovingly educated by our parents, priests, teachers, professors and associates. Yet, with all this knowledge and experience, how much time have you spent on your financial education?

When the season of our life leans toward fall and winter, it is not our ability to structure a sentence or to work in our career that will determine our comfort. Rather, it is our understanding of money that produces success. Too often we don’t realize the dire importance of our financial education until we are out of time.

Recently I helped a retired Brother Knight, explaining to him and his wife about how his financial instruments worked. With a sad look, he asked me to tell every knight I see not to suffer what happened to him. He said, “Don’t let them run out of time.”

Our order put me here to help you understand financial products and how they apply to your security and success. Don’t run out of time – call me today.
