March 2019

From the Grand Knight

Brother Knights:

I do apologize for not making it to the last meeting. Now that we are in February I hate to rush time but I'm ready for warmer weather the Groundhog didn't see shadow which means we are going to have an early Spring. I am praying he is right! Soon March will be upon us and that means we will have to start preparing ourselves for Easter and the Lenten season.

We are having a 40 cans for 40 days food drive starting March 6, and that starts Lent. Please try to say a prayer every day for the less fortunate as you collect food.

March 21 is the Hand in Hand spaghetti dinner starts at 5pm so please try to attend.

Ham and cheese sales have been down recently so let's see if we can get the sales back up. Please call your order in by 4pm March 18. Sandwiches will be made on Wednesday the 20th and delivered on Thursday due to the Lenten season.

March 30 is the Cash Bash. Ticket sales are going good. We are asking members for a donation of lottery tickets to fill a raffle basket. This fund raiser requires a lot of work and we are in need of 40 workers for the night of the event so if you are available please come help.

Our Blood Drive is April 8th. There is always a demand for blood so please stop in. Unfortunately that day and times aren't available yet.

Fraternally yours,... Rich

Chaplain's Message

Lent: A Journey with Christ Back to Christ

Father Anthony J. Legarski, Chaplain

Brother Knights:

This year, the arrival of the month of March simultaneously brings with it the arrival of the start of the Lenten Season.

Like so many other traditions and practices within our faith community, if we do not renew and rethink the meaning of things like Lent, they can easily lose their intended meaning and purpose. This begs the question: How are we going to observe Lent this year? We know the basics, but that is precisely what they are—basics. We hear about them ever year: fasting, abstinence, self-denial, alms giving (charity), reconciliation, penance, etc.

The key to a rewarding and spiritually fulfilling Lent is for us to take these practices and traditions and open ourselves up to them transforming our lives not just for Lent, but for the entire journey of our life on this earth back to the Kingdom of God.

If Lent is about refocusing our lives on what is eternal, if it is about realigning ourselves with what is required of us as disciples, then we must look to this experience from the perspective of our own lives. In doing so, we discover the same things in our day and age that tempted our Lord in His: material things, power, and pride.

What can we do during Lent that will take our minds off of the things of this world, and put them on the world that awaits those who follow Christ?

What can we do to make God the priority and the life he promises our true objective? Are we reluctant to share the material and spiritual blessings we may have with those less fortunate?

If we are in a position to supervise or lead others, we must examine our motive in the way in which we do so. Whether we are a parent, clergy, older sibling, teacher, boss, whatever capacity in which we find ourselves, humility must be our objective. Do we find ourselves pursuing goals at the expense of others?

This will necessarily demand of us a more intense prayer life. This will bring out of us a desire to be open to the gifts of the Holy Spirit and live and act in the right way and for the right reasons in our relationship with others. In the end we will have worked our way back to Christ, who himself became one of us in order to lead us in that direction.

It is often said that "the love of money is the root of all evil." Perhaps there is a great deal of truth in this observation. But the account of the fall of Man in Genesis and the temptation of Jesus teaches us that the love of self, i.e., pride, is truly the root of all evil. Pride traps us into making ourselves the priority. It is all about us. It is obvious how this impacts our relationship with God. Life, because of pride, is all about us—not those around us who are vulnerable, marginalized, or less fortunate. Our Lenten agenda therefore, must necessarily include us taking the initiative to reach out to others, to put the needs of others ahead of our own. In short, Lent demands of us humility and an altruistically driven effort to truly be Christ for others.

If our observance of Lent is approached in this way, we afford ourselves the opportunity and the incentive to confront and conquer the things that we face everyday that hamper our willingness and ability to follow Christ as disciples and as brother Knights. Throughout the course of this journey we must also remember that we have as a model and intercessor—Mary, Star of the Sea.

Thought for the Month
"Miracles of Forgiveness"

Very few people experience the miraculous healing of illness. There are far more who know the miracles of the forgiveness of sin and the kind generosity of friends and strangers.

We may yet look for the extraordinary in life. But it is God who gathers a crowd and works miracles through them. We call it the Church.
